Introduction

This booklet provides information on the International Exposure Program (IEP), its procedures, requirements, and list of university partners. IEP is mandatory for students enrolled in the International Undergraduate Program in International Relations (IUP in IR) at Universitas Gadjah Mada (UGM). Obtaining credits from partner universities abroad is one of the key components that makes IUP in IR an international programme. In addition to strengthening students' academic skills, the IEP provides students with opportunities to participate and take leadership in multicultural interactions, ensuring their path to becoming conscious and active global citizens.

Students are expected to take the IEP in their third year of study, either during the 5th or 6th semester, or both. They can choose to join a Student Exchange Program (SEP), Study Abroad Program (SAP) or a Double Degree Program (DDP). For nearly all SEPs, IUP in IR and its partners have agreed that students shall only pay a single tuition – that is, at the home institution, waiving the students' responsibility to pay tuition at the host institution. As for the SAP, student pay full or up to 75% discounted tuition fees at host institutions and home institutions. As for the DDPs, students pay tuition fees both at the home and host institutions. In both cases, tuition paid to the home institution is significantly reduced. Students cover the visa application, transportation, and living costs for all programs.

Up to September 2022, IUP-IR has twenty university partners for IEP, providing enough slots per year for an entire batch of students. This means that exchange and summer programs offered by universities other than the IUP in IR's IEP partners do not count towards the fulfilment of IEP credits – except if the host university holds a top 50 QS ranking. Placement is carried out through an internal selection process, where students present their study plan in the preferred IEP host university.

Before Program

Attend the IEP workshop

At the beginning or during the third semester, students and parents are requested to attend the IEP workshop. Throughout the workshop, they are presented with information about the IEP -- its SEP, SAP and DDP schemes, procedures, requirements, and university partners. The workshop provides parents and students ample opportunities to discuss their concerns with IUP-IR administrators and IEP supervisors.

Obtain a language proficiency certificate

To be eligible for IEP, students need to have a valid IELTS or TOEFL IBT certificate. It is their responsibility to obtain the certificate before the deadline, 1 January 2023. Students must take into account that each university has a different minimum requirement for language proficiency.

Submit the required documents

At the end of third semester, students are requested to submit documents for internal selection, including their study plans at the preferred partner universities, motivation letter, the latest certificate of language proficiency, as well as latest academic transcript.

What to Do

Before Program

Participate in the internal selection process

Just before the beginning of the fourth semester, students attend interview and/or workshop sessions with the IEP selection panel, which consists of IUP-IR lecturers. Upon assessing each student's study plan, the committee finalizes the placement process. The results are sent to students and partner universities.

Apply to the host university

IEP Coordinator will nominate students to partner universities and inform the student about the application process. It is the students' responsibility to complete their own SEP, SAP or DDP application, which procedures and deadlines differ from one university to another. Students should consult with the IEP Coordinator on the application process and with their assigned IEP supervisor on the course selection. Keep in mind that students who take IEP on the 5th semester need to take an equivalent of 9 UGM credits of courses that reflect their concentration (GPS/PCS/ IPED). Since many universities put quotas for their courses, it is strongly advised that students register for courses as soon as they are made available to (international) students.

Apply for visa

Upon getting a letter of acceptance (LoA) from the host university, students may start applying for their visa. Students need to comply with all visa regulations. It is the students' responsibility to make sure they get the right type of visa in a timely manner.

Before Program

Submit Proposal for IEP Financial Assistance (optional)

The Department provides financial assistance for students taking IEP. To access this, students need to submit a proposal addressed to the Head of Department, consisting of their study plan, exchange period, financial plan, and bank account information to the International Cooperation Coordinator before the departure date.

Make transportation and accommodation arrangements

It is advisable that students finalize their transportation and accommodation arrangements right after their visa is issued. The IEP coordinator will put the students in touch with staff members at the host university's International Office.

Register at UGM and Submit Course Selection to Simaster and IEP Coordinator

Students must register and pay tuition fee to UGM before departing abroad. After selecting courses at partner university, students must submit their course lists to Simaster and IEP Coordinator within a month at the latest after the course registration (KRS) period ends at UGM.

What to Do

After Program

1 Report to the International Cooperation Coordinator

Upon returning to Yogyakarta, students must report to the IEP Coordinator. This is to make sure that they are in good standing with the Department and Faculty, i.e. on payment and course registration matters.

2 Credit Transfer

Once their official academic transcript is released by the host university, students can start their credit transfer. Students need to complete the credit transfer form and get it signed by their IEP supervisor and the head/secretary of program. Students may decide which and how many courses they want to transfer, and this will determine how many courses they still have to take upon returning. Please mind that language courses are non-transferable. The completed form should be submitted to the IEP Coordinator.

What Students Think ●

Raditya Setiawan

IUP in IR UGM Batch 2019

De La Salle College of Saint Benilde – The Philippines

The prospect of being able to go and study abroad as a IR UGM student had always been an exciting thing for me. Getting to know more people around the world and see their perspectives is very interesting and I looked forward to the International Exposure Program. However, with the COVID pandemic, travelling and studying in person at De La Salle became impossible, which certainly disappointed me. However, by the time the online classes started, I was surprised with the amount of fun I had! The people I studied with were enthusiastic about their studies and elevated my learning experience. The Diplomatic Protocol class was a highlight for me, with the lecturer sharing fun and interesting real world experiences and applying it in the class. In terms of making friends, there were also Buddy programs for international students, connecting us with one another. Overall, while the experience wasn't what I expected, it gave me something that's also memorable.

Almira Ramadhania

IUP in IR UGM Batch 2019

University of Glasgow – United Kingdom

The international exposure programme has become one of the academic events that have been awaited by all students from the beginning we entered International Relations at IUP UGM. Of course, it's not easy to do all of the registration for the campus and have to travel amid the global pandemic, however, the struggle has become very worth it. The University of Glasgow has an excellent academic team that is very helpful to the visiting students regarding their course registration and preparation. The politics faculty of the University of Glasgow has two kinds of class conduct: lectures and seminars. It is exciting to experience both the learning system with a different dynamic, with friends from all around the world. The discussion session and the consultation session with the lecturers was very compelling for getting various perspectives in exploring the broader scope of discussion around international relations issues. As Scotland's largest city, Glasgow is filled with so many opportunities and experience that you could never expect. You could always find so many unique and compelling things. It's a city with great people, impressive events and never-ending cool places! You can always find a new museums, parks, galleries, and concerts to visit. The weather can get a little extreme sometimes, so we had to get used to the uncertain rain and freezing wind throughout the month. After all, it was an amazing experience to visit the city that makes us to realize, that People Make Glasgow.

Course Selection

There are different types of courses offered in Sciences Po, and each is worth a specific number of ECTS:

- Lecture course : 5 or 10 ECTS
- Seminar course : 5 ECTS
- Elective course : 5 ECTS

Students who wish to take the SEP in Sciences Po and acquire the Certificate of Studies in Social and Humanities are required to take maximum 30 ECTS credits and pass at least 20 ECTS credits out of the 30 credits ECTS attempted. It is important to note that the courses selected must contain at least one course with 10 ECTS credits (lecture) and one 5 ECTS worth course (seminar/elective/language/artistic workshop).

Sciences Po also offers dedicated certificate studies in European Affairs, International Affairs & Strategy and Business & Economics. Each certificate can be completed in one semester and up to two certificates in an academic year. Students receive a certificate upon successful completion of two core common seminars (one in the certificate and one in French civilization), two courses in their chosen track, one language course, one elective of their choice and the orientation week. The student has to validate 30 credits at the end of the semester. If the student studies for one year, that is two semesters, he/she will be able to validate two certificates (no need to repeat the orientation week).

(5 ECTS at Sciences Po = 4 SKS at UGM)

Frequently Asked Questions

1 Will the Department take care for the visa process?

No. You are personally responsible for obtaining valid visa for the country of your study and you may seek help to the education agent affiliated with the host university. Nevertheless, the Department is willing to provide a letter of reference to process a visa.

2 What is the role of IEP supervisor?

The IEP supervisor will help and guide you regarding your academic matters while studying abroad, including course selection to ensure its transferability and relevance to your focus of study.

3 Why can I not transfer some courses from abroad to IUP in IR?

Courses are transferrable based on their direct relevance to IR as a discipline. Therefore, some courses are not transferable due to lack of direct relevance, such as language courses. While language mastery is an invaluable skill in a globalising world, it does not directly relate to IR curriculum and thus, not transferable. You are advised to consult the courses selection with their IEP supervisor in advance to ensure that every course is transferable.

The non-transferability of language course is not in any way meant to discourage you to take language courses if they you to do so, since language is indeed an important soft skill.

4 Do I have to transfer all of the courses I take in abroad? What if I have failed some courses, can I not transfer them?

You are not required to transfer all courses you take in IEP. Some failed courses are usually not graded by the host university, making them non-transferable to begin with. You can transfer only select courses, or even none at all. The decision to transfer a certain amount of credits will impact your academic plan, meaning that you have to take more courses at UGM in order to fulfil the minimum credit requirements to take Community Service as well as Undergraduate Thesis.

Frequently Asked Questions

5 Why can't I transfer summer course to my transcript?

Summer course is not transferable and therefore, is not considered as part of IEP. There are two reasons for this. First, IEP does not equal studying abroad. It is a program specifically tailored with IUP in IR UGM curriculum in mind, and accordingly, requires meticulous process of mapping partner universities and their curricula. This is not only to ensure that the quality of education at the host university is up to the standard of ours, but also to ensure that the curricula (i.e. credit system, grading system, etc.) are aligned and interoperable. At the moment, summer courses (of many varieties), even those organised by university level partners of UGM, do not fit into our curriculum.

Second, IEP offers enough slots available for students to take at the twenty partner universities. There are at least 48 SEP slots and unlimited slots for DDP. Therefore, you are suggested to focus on getting as much academic experience as possible through the IEP offered by IUP in IR.

6 I am a GPS student, but I only got accepted to a partner university specialised in IPED. Why is that and what should I do?

The decision for the internal selection is based on your interest, your preparation, your study plan, and matters that are believed by the panel to be beneficial for your academic growth. Sometimes you do not get into your first option, perhaps because of the competition in the internal selection process or because you do not match the requirements, but you will be considered for your other options. Students should also prepare back-up plans as necessary. When you do not get into the host university with the specific concentration related to them, you have to make sure that you can do the best with the remaining options. When you are not sure about the options, you are welcome to consult with your IEP supervisor, your academic supervisor, the IUP in IR Office, or the Department of IR.

Frequently Asked Questions

- 7 I found out that the Office of International Affairs (OIA) and IISMA (Indonesia International Student Mobility Awards) at UGM has an exchange program that I prefer instead of the ones offered by IEP. Can I take that instead? What about the credit transfer mechanism in that case?

You can take any exchange program you wish, offered by OIA, IISMA, or otherwise, but it will not be considered part of IEP and thus, not transferable. As mentioned earlier, IEP does not equal merely studying abroad. It is a program designed as part of our curriculum and therefore, can only be done with select partner universities. Consequently, students who take other exchange programs still have to take IEP, affecting the length of study. It is also important to note that exchange programs offered by OIA, IISMA (or any other institutions) are typically open to all instead of specifically reserved for IUP in IR students as IEP is, making it more difficult to guarantee acceptance in the program. Exceptions can be made if the exchange program is offered by a university that holds a top 50 QS ranking (university-wise and program-wise). This exception is made on a case by case basis by the Head and Secretary of the Undergraduate Program in IR. Please consult with the IUP in IR office.

- 8 I got accepted at university A, but I want to try my luck at getting to University B. Can I do that? Also, is my spot at university A reserved for me if I do not get into university B?

You should have valid reasons as to why you want to apply for another university, especially when you have been selected to a university of your choice. This request should be discussed with the International Cooperation Coordinator at IUP in IR Office. After the request is submitted, it will be discussed by the Head and Secretary of Undergraduate Program in IR. The request can only be approved if there is a valid reason for it. When your request to change university is approved, your spot at the previous university is not reserved for you. If you change your mind, again, and want to go to the previous university, you have to go through another selection if there are other students applying for that slot.

Frequently Asked Questions

9 Why do we still have to pay our tuition at UGM when we are doing our semester(s) abroad?

This is the important meaning of ‘exchange’ in student exchange program. In this program, you get to study without paying tuition at the host university in exchange for the host university’s students to study at UGM without having to do the same. You are paying a discounted tuition at UGM when doing the IEP to pay for the study costs of the exchange students, and vice versa.

In some cases, you still have to pay tuition both at the host university and home university. For example, at University of Melbourne, students have to pay 25% of the tuition fee per semester. This is because the program offered by University of Melbourne is not student exchange program, but study abroad program. The reason for this arrangement is to ensure that students who study at University of Melbourne can transfer their credits to UGM, since University of Melbourne does not acknowledge credit transfer through student exchange program. However, instead of paying 100% tuition fee per semester, the agreement between IUP in IR with University of Melbourne allows you to only pay 25% of the normal tuition.

For those students seeking to do the Double Degree Program (DDP), they have to pay the normal fee at the host institution for a year and a discounted fee at UGM for the same year. Paying the normal fee at the host institution for a one year DDP is the arrangement that both institutions have agreed upon. Usually the DDP takes two years at the host institution, but with the arrangement that UGM has with both Murdoch University and Flinders University, students can get a degree from one of the two partners with only doing one year program there.

Another reason as to why it is important to pay tuition at both institutions is because you need to be acknowledged as an active student at UGM when doing the semester(s) abroad in order for your credits to be transferred. Therefore, for students doing the University of Melbourne’s Study Abroad Program and those who are doing Double Degree Program at Murdoch University or Flinders University, they are still required to pay for the tuition fee at UGM with a discounted price.

Frequently Asked Questions

10 Are we allowed to leave for host university despite the pandemic?

As long as the embassy, the immigration services and the host university allow international students to come, there is no reason why you should not go. However, if you cannot come to the country or the program is cancelled altogether because of the continuing pandemic, the Department will help you with more suitable options.
